Dedication Hymn

For Laurinburg Presbyterian Church

March 7, 1909

Upon Thy great white throne, Jehovah, Thou
Dost rule all worlds; yet art Thou even now,
In tender love, that casteth out all fear,
Meeting Thy worshippers now gathered here.

We come with those who, in the days of old,
Were our wee lambs, now, shepherds of the fold;
All hearts would join, as we our voices raise,
In hallelujahs to Emmanuel's praise.

For fifty years, Thou hast this people led,
And fed them in the wilderness, with bread,
Sires, daughters, sons, remembering old days,
Build a new temple to our Master's praise.

Grace unto it, thy walls are laid in prayer,
Thy capstone crown'd with love, in which all share.
May holy incense fill Thy house to-day;
Each soul, a heav'n-born blessing bear away.
